

CONGRESSIONAL VOTING RECORD

119TH CONGRESS

January 2025 – July 2026

About the Congressional Voting Record

Members of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) have a long history of lobbying Congress and holding their legislators accountable for how they vote on AAUW priority issues.

The AAUW Action Fund Congressional Voting Record provides information about elected federal legislators through the votes they cast or bills they co-sponsor on critical issues.

This voting record covers the 119th Congress through July 2026 and is distributed to every member of the current Congress. The AAUW Action Fund conducted a comprehensive examination of each lawmaker's record on votes and co-sponsorships related to AAUW's Public Policy Principles and Priorities, which were voted on and adopted by AAUW members in May 2025. The voting record lists bill co-sponsorships and roll call votes officially recorded on the floor of the U.S. Senate or the U.S. House of Representatives.

The AAUW Action Fund examined 66 bills across both chambers of Congress and included five House actions and six Senate actions. The voting record is neither an endorsement nor a condemnation of any member of Congress.

For more information, contact the AAUW Action Fund at 202-785-7700 or policy@aauw.org.

Using the Voting Record

AAUW members and other concerned citizens can use the voting record to hold their senators and representatives accountable for their positions on AAUW's priority issues. For example, you can refer to the voting record during community candidate and issue forums or at town hall meetings held by your members of Congress; use the voting record when writing letters to the editor regarding a legislator's position on AAUW issues; and share the record with coalition partners, friends, family, and prospective AAUW members. By taking these actions, you help educate your community on the issues and policymakers' records.

Reading the Voting Record

The votes and co-sponsorships recorded here do not indicate the full extent of a legislator's support or opposition to AAUW positions.

A vote or co-sponsorship consistent with AAUW's position is designated by a ✓. A vote or co-sponsorship inconsistent with AAUW's position is designated by a ✗. NV indicates that no vote was cast. A blank indicates the legislator was not in office at the time of the vote or co-sponsorship opportunity.

Introduction

The Congressional Voting Record is intended to provide a snapshot of AAUW policy issues and how they fared, and so does not wholly reflect the federal political landscape during the 119th Congress.

The 119th Congress was defined by hyper-partisanship and intra-party divisions. In addition, compared to prior administrations, the Executive Branch took a more direct role in efforts to reshape the federal education system, public benefits, and enforcement of federal civil rights laws. A challenging relationship between the Executive Branch and Congress further thwarted legislative movement.

Given complex political dynamics at play, this voting record provides information on lawmakers' votes and co-sponsorships without calculating a numerical score based on those actions. Voting records, with or without scores, are powerful tools for educating constituents about the positions of their elected officials and holding lawmakers accountable.

AAUW members across the country share why their vote matters.

U.S. Senate

One Big Beautiful Bill Act (H.R. 1)

Federal budget decisions directly shape opportunity and economic security for women and families, including access to education, healthcare, and other public services. Certain tax and spending bills can bypass the Senate's usual 60-vote threshold and pass through budget reconciliation, a process that allows them to become law with a simple majority (51 votes). The One Big Beautiful Bill Act (OBBBA) is a sweeping budget reconciliation package that became law on July 4, 2025.

Higher Education

OBBBA enacted major changes to the federal student loan system, most of which took effect July 1, 2026. The law eliminates Graduate PLUS loans for new borrowers, which previously allowed students to borrow up to the full cost of attendance. It also imposes strict borrowing caps that may fall below the real cost of many programs: generally, $20,500 a year, up to $100,000 total, for graduate students, and $50,000 a year, up to $200,000 total, for professional students such as those in law or medical school.

This part of the law began a federal rulemaking process to decide which programs count as "graduate" or "professional" for borrowing purposes, directly affecting how much students can borrow and which career paths stay within reach. AAUW weighed in throughout that process, and the Department of Education's final definitions are now being challenged in court, a sign of how contested this law remains.

OBBBA also overhauled student loan repayment. The law phased out the most affordable income-driven repayment plans, including the Saving on a Valuable Education (SAVE) plan. In their place, it created a new Repayment Assistance Plan that ends $0 monthly payments for the lowest-income borrowers and can charge working families more each month. The law also eliminates deferment for unemployment or economic hardship and sharply limits forbearance, longstanding protections that let borrowers pause payments during a job loss or setback.

These changes are especially concerning for women pursuing graduate and professional degrees, including women of color, single mothers, and first-generation students, who may be forced to delay, reduce, or forgo their education without adequate, affordable loan options.

Public Education

OBBBA created the first national school voucher-style tax credit program, diverting taxpayer funds from public schools to private or religious schools. Governors must opt their state into the program to participate. Because the program operates through private, third-party "scholarship-granting organizations," participating schools are not held to the same civil rights, transparency, or accountability standards as public schools. Existing state voucher programs show that students of color, low-income and rural students, and students with disabilities are hit the hardest, as vouchers strain public school budgets and reduce services like transportation.

Healthcare

OBBBA established new barriers to accessing Medicaid, a federal-state government health insurance program that provides coverage for many Americans, including low-income families, children, older adults, and people with disabilities. Starting January 1, 2027, most adults on Medicaid expansion will have to prove they are working, in school, or otherwise exempt to keep their coverage. The law also reinstated burdensome documentation requirements that can cause eligible people to lose coverage over paperwork or errors. Medicaid is especially important to women's health, supporting preventive, prenatal, and long-term care and coverage for caregivers and people with disabilities. New paperwork barriers and funding cuts increase the burden on states, which may be forced to scale back services that working families and rural clinics rely on.

OBBBA also barred Medicaid from reimbursing Planned Parenthood and similar providers for non-abortion care such as birth control, cancer screenings, and testing for sexually transmitted infections (STIs). Because of Senate rules governing reconciliation bills, this restriction could only last one year. It took effect in July 2025 and expired on July 4, 2026, with Medicaid funding resuming the following day. During that year, Planned Parenthood says it closed nearly 30 clinics nationwide, citing the funding loss, and patients lost access to routine screenings and care.

Altogether, OBBBA threatens the systems that help women and families learn, work, and stay healthy.

AAUW opposed the One Big Beautiful Bill Act (H.R. 1).

Rep. Jodey Arrington (R-Texas) introduced H.R. 1 on May 20, 2025. The U.S. Senate tied in a vote on passage of the bill, as amended (Roll Call Vote No. 372, 1st Session, 119th Congress) on July 1, 2025: Democrats – 0 yes, 45 no, 0 not voting; Republicans – 50 yes, 3 no, 0 not voting; Independents – 0 yes, 2 no, 0 not voting. Vice President JD Vance broke the tie with a “yes” vote.

The House of Representatives agreed to the Senate amendment (Roll Call Vote No. 190, 1st Session, 119th Congress) on July 3, 2025: Democrats – 0 yes, 212 no, 0 not voting; Republicans – 218 yes, 2 no, 0 not voting; Independents – 0 yes, 0 no, 0 not voting. President Donald Trump signed the bill into law on July 4, 2025.

Confirmation of Linda McMahon as U.S. Secretary of Education

On November 19, 2024, then President-elect Donald Trump announced his nomination of Linda McMahon to serve as U.S. Secretary of Education. The Secretary is responsible for leading the U.S. Department of Education, the federal agency charged with protecting students' civil rights, enforcing federal education laws, and expanding educational opportunity and attainment for all students.

AAUW opposed McMahon's nomination based on her lack of experience in education, school administration, or civil rights protections and her support for policies that undermine public education and students' civil rights. In public statements, McMahon expressed support for diverting public funds to private schools, eliminating robust student protections under Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and cutting or weakening financial aid programs that help low-income students receive higher education.

Prior to McMahon's hearing before the U.S. Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP), AAUW urged senators to thoroughly examine her record and intentions for the Department. In her hearing, McMahon demonstrated a lack of knowledge of key federal education laws, including the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, and failed to respond to senators' concerns regarding adequate funding for the Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights. AAUW concluded that McMahon's record and lack of qualifications made her unfit to serve as Secretary of Education.

AAUW opposed the confirmation of Linda McMahon as Secretary of Education.

The U.S. Senate voted to confirm McMahon (Roll Call Vote No. 99, 1st Session, 119th Congress) on March 3, 2025: Democrats – 0 yes, 43 no, 2 not voting; Republicans – 51 yes, 0 no, 2 not voting; Independents – 0 yes, 2 no, 0 not voting.

Paycheck Fairness Act (S. 1115)

Research repeatedly shows that, even after controlling for level of education, choice of college major, and job tenure, women are still paid less than similarly educated and experienced men. Pay gaps persist due to complex factors, including the fields in which women are concentrated, caregiving responsibilities, and gender and racial discrimination.

Women overall continue to face a pay gap compared with men, but women of color, women with disabilities, and LGBTQ+ women are hit hardest. Eliminating the gender pay gap would drastically reduce the poverty rate for working women.

The Paycheck Fairness Act (PFA) would update and bolster the Equal Pay Act of 1963 to provide robust protections against sex-based pay discrimination. PFA would close loopholes that have weakened the law over time, allowing employers to justify paying workers unfairly. The bill would create more robust remedies for those who have suffered discrimination, prevent employers from retaliating against workers who discuss or disclose their wages, prohibit employers from requiring or relying on salary history to set wages, and provide much-needed training and technical assistance, as well as data collection and research.

AAUW endorsed the Paycheck Fairness Act (S. 1115).

Sen. Patty Murray (D-Wash.) introduced the bill on March 25, 2025. The measure had 46 cosponsors: Democrats: 44; Republicans: 0; Independents: 2.

Family and Medical Leave Insurance (FAMILY) Act (S. 2823)

The lack of a national paid leave program in the United States forces many Americans to make the difficult choice between addressing health concerns and protecting their financial security. While the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) provides job-protected unpaid leave, the program fails to cover much of the U.S. workforce. Many families who do qualify cannot afford to take unpaid leave as costs outpace earnings.

Inability to access paid leave harms women and people of color the most. Women shoulder an unfair caregiving burden due to societal norms, increasing their likelihood of needing leave. The creation of a federal paid leave program would reduce women's economic insecurity, increase workforce participation and retention, and improve health outcomes for families.

The Family and Medical Insurance (FAMILY) Act would create a national self-financing paid family and medical leave insurance program. The FAMILY Act would provide eligible workers with up to 12 weeks of partial income when they take time for their own serious health conditions, including pregnancy and childbirth recovery; the serious health condition of a family member; the birth or adoption of a child; to address the effects of domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking; and/or to make arrangements related to a family member's military deployment. The FAMILY Act would provide comprehensive coverage for workers at companies of all sizes, including part-time, lower-wage, temporary, and self-employed workers, while also protecting them from retaliation and guaranteeing job reinstatement for those who have been at their jobs for more than 90 days.

AAUW endorsed the FAMILY Act (S. 2823).

Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand (D-N.Y.) introduced the bill on September 16, 2025. The measure had 38 co-sponsors: Democrats: 37; Republicans: 0; Independents: 1.

John R. Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act (S. 2523)

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 was designed to prevent election laws and practices that discriminate against voters or deny equal access to the ballot. But a series of Supreme Court decisions, including Shelby County v. Holder (2013), Brnovich v. Democratic National Committee (2021), and Louisiana v. Callais (2026), has weakened the law's protections and made it easier for states to advance restrictive voting policies and redistricting maps that dilute voters' power.

Over the past decade, states have enacted new barriers to voting, including stricter ID laws, polling place closures, limits on mail-in voting, and restrictive redistricting maps. These barriers fall hardest on women, people of color, older adults, people with disabilities, and rural communities — groups that have historically faced obstacles at the ballot box.

The John R. Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act (VRAA) would help protect equal access to the ballot. It restores a federal preclearance process for states and localities with a recent pattern of voting discrimination, requiring them to get federal approval before certain voting changes take effect. The John R. Lewis VRAA would also require public notice of voting changes at least 180 days before an election, giving voters and advocates time to respond. The bill would expand the federal government's authority to send observers to polling places where voters may face discrimination.

AAUW endorsed the John R. Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act (S. 2523).

Sen. Richard Durbin (D-Ill.) introduced the bill on July 29, 2025. The measure had 46 cosponsors: Democrats: 44; Republicans: 0; Independents: 2.

Safeguard American Voter Eligibility (SAVE) Act (S. 128)

Many Americans rely on flexible voting options to make their voices heard in elections. Expanding early voting, vote-by-mail, accessible polling places, and language and disability accommodations can reduce barriers for eligible voters.

Documentary proof of citizenship requirements, while intended to enhance election integrity, place undue burdens on eligible voters who may not have immediate access to documents like passports or birth certificates. Strict paperwork requirements disproportionately harm people of color, people with disabilities, older adults, and women — especially those whose names have changed due to marriage or divorce.

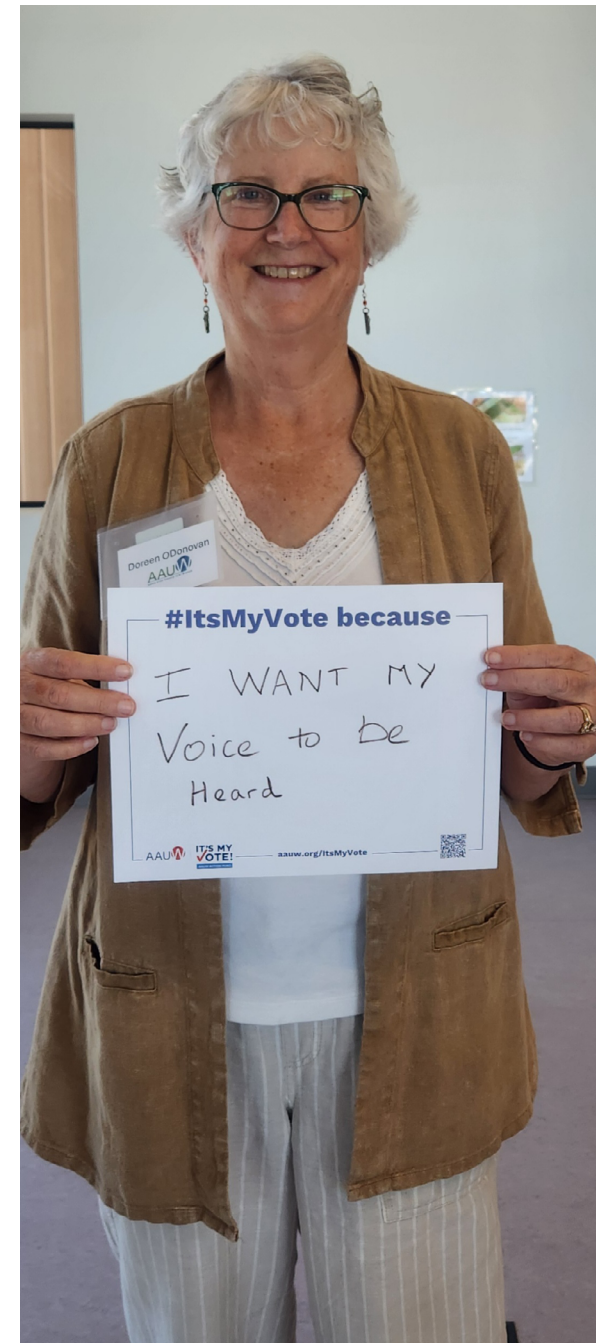

The Safeguard American Voter Eligibility (SAVE) Act would amend the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 to require individuals to present documentary proof of U.S. citizenship when registering or updating their registration to vote in federal elections. Qualifying documents would include a valid U.S. passport or a REAL ID that expressly indicates U.S. citizenship.

Other options generally would require a specified citizenship document, such as a birth certificate, together with an approved photo ID. The bill would sharply restrict mail, online, automatic, and community-based voter registration by requiring applicants to present citizenship documents in person to an election official.

The similarly named SAVE America Act (S. 1383) is a separate, more restrictive voter disenfranchisement bill. In addition to the SAVE Act's documentary proof-of-citizenship requirements, it would impose a nationwide voter photo-ID mandate and expand voter-list verification and removal requirements.

AAUW opposed the SAVE Act (S. 128).

Sen. Mike Lee (R-Utah) introduced the bill on January 16, 2025. The measure had 49 cosponsors: Democrats: 0; Republicans: 49; Independents: 0.

U.S. House of Representatives

One Big Beautiful Bill Act (H.R. 1)

Federal budget decisions directly shape opportunity and economic security for women and families, including access to education, healthcare, and other public services. Certain tax and spending bills can bypass the Senate's usual 60-vote threshold and pass through budget reconciliation, a process that allows them to become law with a simple majority (51 votes). The One Big Beautiful Bill Act (OBBBA) is a sweeping budget reconciliation package that became law on July 4, 2025.

Higher Education

OBBBA enacted major changes to the federal student loan system, most of which took effect July 1, 2026. The law eliminates Graduate PLUS loans for new borrowers, which previously allowed students to borrow up to the full cost of attendance. It also imposes strict borrowing caps that may fall below the real cost of many programs: generally, $20,500 a year, up to $100,000 total, for graduate students, and $50,000 a year, up to $200,000 total, for professional students such as those in law or medical school.

This part of the law began a federal rulemaking process to decide which programs count as "graduate" or "professional" for borrowing purposes, directly affecting how much students can borrow and which career paths stay within reach. AAUW weighed in throughout that process, and the Department of Education's final definitions are now being challenged in court, a sign of how contested this law remains.

OBBBA also overhauled student loan repayment. The law phased out the most affordable income-driven repayment plans, including the Saving on a Valuable Education (SAVE) plan. In their place, it created a new Repayment Assistance Plan that ends $0 monthly payments for the lowest-income borrowers and can charge working families more each month. The law also eliminates deferment for unemployment or economic hardship and sharply limits forbearance, longstanding protections that let borrowers pause payments during a job loss or setback.

These changes are especially concerning for women pursuing graduate and professional degrees, including women of color, single mothers, and first-generation students, who may be forced to delay, reduce, or forgo their education without adequate, affordable loan options.

Public Education

OBBBA created the first national school voucher-style tax credit program, diverting taxpayer funds from public schools to private or religious schools. Governors must opt their state into the program to participate. Because the program operates through private, third-party "scholarship-granting organizations," participating schools are not held to the same civil rights, transparency, or accountability standards as public schools. Existing state voucher programs show that students of color, low-income and rural students, and students with disabilities are hit the hardest, as vouchers strain public school budgets and reduce services like transportation.

Healthcare

OBBBA established new barriers to accessing Medicaid, a federal-state government health insurance program that provides coverage for many Americans, including low-income families, children, older adults, and people with disabilities. Starting January 1, 2027, most adults on Medicaid expansion will have to prove they are working, in school, or otherwise exempt to keep their coverage. The law also reinstated burdensome documentation requirements that can cause eligible people to lose coverage over paperwork or errors. Medicaid is especially important to women's health, supporting preventive, prenatal, and long-term care and coverage for caregivers and people with disabilities. New paperwork barriers and funding cuts increase the burden on states, which may be forced to scale back services that working families and rural clinics rely on.

OBBBA also barred Medicaid from reimbursing Planned Parenthood and similar providers for non-abortion care such as birth control, cancer screenings, and testing for sexually transmitted infections (STIs).

Because of Senate rules governing reconciliation bills, this restriction could only last one year. It took effect in July 2025 and expired on July 4, 2026, with Medicaid funding resuming the following day. During that year, Planned Parenthood says it closed nearly 30 clinics nationwide, citing the funding loss, and patients lost access to routine screenings and care.

Altogether, OBBBA threatens the systems that help women and families learn, work, and stay healthy.

AAUW opposed the One Big Beautiful Bill Act (H.R. 1).

Rep. Jodey Arrington (R-Texas) introduced the bill on May 20, 2025. The U.S. House of Representatives voted to pass H.R. 1 (Roll Call Vote No. 145, 1st Session, 119th Congress) on May 22, 2025: Democrats – 0 yes, 212 no, 0 not voting; Republicans – 215 yes, 2 no, 1 present, 2 not voting; Independents – 0 yes, 0 no, 0 not voting.

Following passage in the Senate, the House agreed to the Senate amendment (Roll Call Vote No. 190, 1st Session, 119th Congress) on July 3, 2025: Democrats – 0 yes, 212 no, 0 not voting; Republicans – 218 yes, 2 no, 0 not voting; Independents – 0 yes, 0 no, 0 not voting. President Donald Trump signed the bill into law on July 4, 2025.

Paycheck Fairness Act (H.R. 17)

Research repeatedly shows that, even after controlling for level of education, choice of college major, and job tenure, women are still paid less than similarly educated and experienced men. Pay gaps persist due to complex factors, including the fields in which women are concentrated, caregiving responsibilities, and gender and racial discrimination.

Women overall continue to face a pay gap compared with men, but women of color, women with disabilities, and LGBTQ+ women are hit hardest. Eliminating the gender pay gap would drastically reduce the poverty rate for working women.

The Paycheck Fairness Act (PFA) would update and bolster the Equal Pay Act of 1963 to provide robust protections against sex-based pay discrimination. PFA would close loopholes that have weakened the law over time, allowing employers to justify paying workers unfairly. The bill would create more robust remedies for those who have suffered discrimination, prevent employers from retaliating against workers who discuss or disclose their wages, prohibit employers from requiring or relying on salary history to set wages, and provide much-needed training and technical assistance, as well as data collection and research.

AAUW endorsed the Paycheck Fairness Act (H.R. 17).

Rep. Rosa DeLauro (D-Conn.) introduced the bill on March 25, 2025. The measure had 220 cosponsors: Democrats: 219; Republicans: 1; Independents: 0.

Family and Medical Leave Insurance (FAMILY) Act (H.R. 5390)

The lack of a national paid leave program in the United States forces many Americans to make the difficult choice between addressing health concerns and protecting their financial security. While the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) provides job-protected unpaid leave, the program fails to cover much of the U.S. workforce. Many families who do qualify cannot afford to take unpaid leave as costs outpace earnings.

Inability to access paid leave harms women and people of color the most. Women shoulder an unfair caregiving burden due to societal norms, increasing their likelihood of needing leave. The creation of a federal paid leave program would reduce women's economic insecurity, increase workforce participation and retention, and improve health outcomes for families.

The Family and Medical Insurance (FAMILY) Act would create a national self-financing paid family and medical leave insurance program. The FAMILY Act would provide eligible workers with up to 12 weeks of partial income when they take time for their own serious health conditions, including pregnancy and childbirth recovery; the serious health condition of a family member; the birth or adoption of a child; to address the effects of domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking; and/or to make arrangements related to a family member's military deployment. The FAMILY Act would provide comprehensive coverage for workers at companies of all sizes, including part-time, lower-wage, temporary, and self-employed workers, while also protecting them from retaliation and guaranteeing job reinstatement for those who have been at their jobs for more than 90 days.

AAUW endorsed the FAMILY Act (H.R. 5390).

Rep. Rosa DeLauro (D-Conn.) introduced the bill on September

16, 2025. The measure had 207 cosponsors: Democrats: 207; Republicans: 0; Independents: 0.

John R. Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act (H.R. 14)

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 was designed to prevent election laws and practices that discriminate against voters or deny equal access to the ballot. But a series of Supreme Court decisions, including Shelby County v. Holder (2013), Brnovich v. Democratic National Committee (2021), and Louisiana v. Callais (2026), has weakened the law's protections and made it easier for states to advance restrictive voting policies and redistricting maps that dilute voters' power.

Over the past decade, states have enacted new barriers to voting, including stricter ID laws, polling place closures, limits on mail-in voting, and restrictive redistricting maps. These barriers fall hardest on women, people of color, older adults, people with disabilities, and rural communities — groups that have historically faced obstacles at the ballot box.

The John R. Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act (VRAA) would help protect equal access to the ballot. It restores a federal preclearance process for states and localities with a recent pattern of voting discrimination, requiring them to get federal approval before certain voting changes take effect. The John R. Lewis VRAA would also require public notice of voting changes at least 180 days before an election, giving voters and advocates time to respond. The bill would expand the federal government's authority to send observers to polling places where voters may face discrimination.

AAUW endorsed the John R. Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act (H.R. 14).

Rep. Terri Sewell (D-Ala.) introduced the bill on March 5, 2025. The measure had 220 cosponsors: Democrats: 220; Republicans: 0; Independents: 0.

Safeguard American Voter Eligibility (SAVE) Act (H.R. 22)

Many Americans rely on flexible voting options to make their voices heard in elections. Expanding early voting, vote-by-mail, accessible polling places, and language and disability accommodations can reduce barriers for eligible voters.

Documentary proof of citizenship requirements, while intended to enhance election integrity, place undue burdens on eligible voters who may not have immediate access to documents like passports or birth certificates. Strict paperwork requirements disproportionately harm people of color, people with disabilities, older adults, and women — especially those whose names have changed due to marriage or divorce.

The Safeguard American Voter Eligibility (SAVE) Act would amend the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 to require individuals to present documentary proof of U.S. citizenship when registering or updating their registration to vote in federal elections. Qualifying documents would include a valid U.S. passport or a REAL ID that expressly indicates U.S. citizenship.

Other options generally would require a specified citizenship document, such as a birth certificate, together with an approved photo ID. The bill would sharply restrict mail, online, automatic, and community-based voter registration by requiring applicants to present citizenship documents in person to an election official.

The similarly named SAVE America Act (H.R. 7296) is a separate, more restrictive voter disenfranchisement bill. In addition to the SAVE Act's documentary proof-of-citizenship requirements, it would impose a nationwide voter photo-ID mandate and expand voter-list verification and removal requirements. As of July 31, 2026, this bill had not received a vote.

AAUW opposed the SAVE Act (H.R. 22).

Rep. Chip Roy (R-Texas) introduced the bill on January 3, 2025. The U.S. House of Representatives voted to pass the SAVE Act (Roll Call Vote No. 102, 1st Session, 119th Congress) on April 10, 2025: Democrats — 4 yes, 208 no, 1 not voting; Republicans — 216 yes, 0 no, 4 not voting; Independents — 0 yes, 0 no, 0 not voting.
